Born, May 4, 1841 Died, April 25, 1905

Extract from Mrs. Benham's will:

"To the Benham Club of Princeton, New Jersey, the sum of Five Hundred dollars for the uses of that Club, trusting that the said Club may always continue in spirit and name as they are now."

"I give and bequeath to the Benham Club hereinbefore named all the dining-room furniture, dishes, table linen, silverware, sideboard, kitchen utensils and the club pictures and my portrait in the parlor, now in number one hundred and eighteen Alexander Street, Princeton, New Jersey."

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION OF THE BENHAM CLUB

This is to certify that the undersigned do hereby associate themselves into a corporation under and by virtue of the provisions of an act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An act to incorporate associations not for pecuniary profit", approved April twenty-first, eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, and the several supplements thereto and acts amendatory thereof.

First.—The name of this corporation is The Benham Club.

Second.—The purposes for which this corporation is formed are as an eating and social club for the students and alumni of Princeton Theological Seminary, to promote good fellowship and foster friendships among the said students and alumni, and for the general welfare and comfort of the said students and alumni.

Third.—The location of the principal office of this corporation is at No. 117 Library Place, Borough of Princeton, County of Mercer, and the name of the agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process against the corporation may be served, is William P. Armstrong.

Fourth.—The number of trustees of this corporation is six.

Fifth.—The names of the trustees selected for the first year of the existence of this corporation are William P. Armstrong, Charles R. Erdman, Edward R. Laughlin, James O. Boyd, Minot C. Morgan, James B. Brown, Princeton, New Jersey.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands and seals this eighth day of May, A. D., 1905.

CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS

CONSTITUTION

Adopted MAY, 1907.

ARTICLE I.---NAME.

The name of the club shall be The Benham Club.

ARTICLE 2.---PURPOSE.

The purpose of the club shall be to provide for the association of a limited and selected number of men whose fellowship may be mutually beneficial socially, intellectually, and spiritually; and also to provide for good substantial table board at a reasonable charge.

ARTICLE 3.—MEMBERSHIP.

SECTION 1. The membership of the club shall consist of active, graduate, and honorary members.

SEC. 2. The active members shall be students pursuing some course of study in Princeton Theological Seminary; but the number of such members shall not exceed thirty.

SEC. 3. Graduate members shall consist of those who have once been active members.

SEC. 4. Honorary membership may be conferred on any person by a unanimous vote of members present at any annual meeting of the club; but the number of such members shall not at any time be greater than three. Honorary members shall have all the privileges of graduate members, but shall not vote or hold office.

CONSTITUTION

ARTICLE 4.- THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

SECTION I. The responsible management of the club in its corporate capacity shall be vested in a Board of Trustees, which shall consist of seven (7) members, six from the graduate and one from the active membership of the club.

SEC. 2. At the annual meeting of the year 1907, seven (7) trustees shall be elected by ballot to wit: two (2) from the graduate membership to serve three (3) years; two (2) from the graduate membership to serve two (2) years; two (2) from the graduate membership to serve one (1) year; and one (1) who shall be the chief-elect, to serve one (1) year.

SEC. 3. At each annual meeting after the year 1907 two (2) trustees shall be elected from the graduate membership to serve three (3) years, and one (1) who shall be the chief-elect to serve one (1) year.

SEC. 4. The trustees shall serve until their successors have been elected.

SEC. 5. Any vacancies in the Board of Trustees may be filled by the club at its annual meeting; or by the trustees, who may elect a member or members to hold office until the next following annual meeting.

SEC. 6. The Board of Trustees shall have general charge of the affairs, funds, and property of the club.

SEC. 7. The Board of Trustees shall elect from its members a President, and a Secretary-Treasurer, to serve for a year or until their successors have been elected.

SEC. 8. The Board of Trustees shall meet annually on the Monday before the second Saturday in May and at the call of the President or the Secretary-Treasurer. A majority of its members shall constitute a quorum. SEC. 9. The President and the Secretary-Treasurer of the Board of Trustees shall sign all written contracts, notes, mortgages or other obligations on behalf of the club.

SEC. IO. The President of the Board of Trustees shall preside at all meetings of the Trustees and at the annual meeting of the club; but in case of his absence a presiding officer may be elected to fill his place.

SEC. 11. The Secretary-Treasurer of the Board of Trustees shall keep the minutes of the annual meetings of the club and of the meetings of the Board of Trustees, conduct its correspondence, keep its records and the club seal, receive subscriptions to the club, pay upon voucher the debts of the club approved by any other member of the Board of Trustees, but not the debts incurred by the active membership of the club, which shall be discharged by that body. He shall report in writing to the club at its annual meeting.

SEC. 12. The Trustees shall appoint from their number a committee of two to audit annually the books of the Secretary-Treasurer. They shall also hear and receive and place on file the report of the finances and of the general condition of the active membership of the club made by the chief.

ARTICLE 5.-THE ACTIVE MEMBERSHIP.

SECTION I. Election of Active Members.—Members shall be elected to the club at meetings called for the purpose by the chief. A quorum shall consist of three-fourths of the active membership in Princeton, provided due effort has been made to secure the attendance of all members in town. The election shall be by ballot, every active member present being entitled to one vote. The ballot must be unanimous in order to elect. Rejected names shall not be renominated for one year.

SEC. 2. Officers.—The officers of the club shall be the following: Chief, Judge, Assistant-Judge, Ezra, Precentor, Assistant Precentor, Steward, and Assistant Steward, each of whom is to be elected annually by the senior, i. e. graduating, class from the active membership.

The senior class shall choose the chief, the judge, the steward and the precentor from the succeeding class; and the assistant judge, Ezra and assistant steward from the second succeeding class; but the assistant precentor may be chosen from any class.

SEC. 3. Duties of Officers.—The Chief shall direct the business affairs of the active membership, make an annual statement to the Board of Trustees concerning the finances and general conditions, call and preside over all meetings of the active membership and of the senior class members of the club, represent the active membership in the Board of Trustees, preside at table, concur with the Ezra in fining the assistant-judge when the judge is absent, and perform all such other duties as usually pertain to the head officer.

The chief elect shall be granted a seat but no vote in the annual May (spring) meeting of the Board of Trustees.

The Judge shall administer the code, act as secretary of the active membership and of the senior class, and preside at table in the absence of the chief.

The Assistant Judge shall fine the judge according to the code and in the absence of the judge shall perform his duties in administering the code.

The Ezra shall record and collect the fines, and in the absence of the judge shall concur with the chief in fining the assistant judge. The Precentor shall take charge of the music at the club. The Assistant Precentor shall perform the duties of the precentor in the absence of the latter.

The Steward shall provide for the table under the oversight of the chief and shall perform such other duties as the chief shall assign him.

The Assistant Steward shall be under the training of the steward and shall perform the duties of the steward in his absence.

SEC. 4. Election of Officers.—The power to elect all officers of the active membership shall be vested in the senior class, who shall announce the officers for the ensuing year at the spring dinner.

SEC. 5. An active member may be dismissed from the club by a three-fourths vote of the active membership.

ARTICLE 6.-SENIOR CONTROL.

The members of the Senior class shall serve as an executive committee, exercising general control over the affairs of the club and transacting its business, but shall hold itself amenable (except in the matter of election of officers) to the active club, and report to it from time to time. They shall also appoint from their number a committee of two to audit the accounts of the chief.

At the option of the chief, the middle class may be invited for conference with the senior class, but at such conference no vote shall be taken.

There shall be a regular monthly meeting of the Senior class at which the chief shall present a statement of the condition of the active membership, financial and otherwise. All bills against the active membership shall be considered at this meeting, or at a call meeting of the senior class. If the bills meet the approval of the members present, the judge is authorized to provide the chief with vouchers for the same. All business transacted by the active membership in open meeting shall require a two-thirds vote.

ARTICLE 7.--ANNUAL MEETING.

There shall be an annual meeting of the club in May for the election of Trustees, the hearing of reports from the active membership and from the Board of Trustees, and for the transacting of such other business as may properly come before it.

ARTICLE 8.—HOUSE COMMITTEE.

There shall be a House Committee appointed by the chief consisting of one member from the senior class, who shall be chairman, and two members from the middle class. This committee shall have advisory power in matters concerning the property and the furnishing of the club. The committee shall report through its chairman to the senior class.

The club emblem shall be a wish-bone encircling the letter "B" in such general design as is found on the seal of the corporation.

ARTICLE 10.-AMENDMENT.

SECTION I. This constitution may be amended by a three-fourths vote of the members at the annual meeting.

SEC. 2. Notice of proposed amendments must be sent to the President of the Board of Trustees at least one month before the annual meeting, and the President of the Board of Trustees shall have notice of such proposed amendments sent to the members of the club before the said annual meeting. At the said annual meeting the President of the Board of Trustees shall report the proposed amendments to the club and shall recommend such action as the Board think best.

BY-LAWS

ARTICLE I.-SEATS AT TABLE.

The seating of the men at table shall be by lot, the classes drawing in order of seniority; the seat to be occupied by the chief shall not be in the drawing; the situation of this seat shall be permanent, and as follows:

Chief, middle seat on right hand (East) side of table.

ARTICLE 2.-THE CODE.

SECTION I. The club in its deportment at table shall be governed by a code of fines administered by the officers of the club hereinbefore provided.

SEC. 2. A committee appointed by the chief shall prepare each autumn a list of the finable offenses for that year with the penalties for each, and such other regulations as may be needed to guide the officers in the administration of the code. This code shall continue in force until a new one is adopted.

SEC. 3. The proceeds from fines under the code shall be given to some Christian cause determined upon by the active membership.

BY-LAWS

ARTICLE 3.-REMISSION OF BOARD PAYMENT

SECTION I. In view of the services of the chief and the steward, no board payment shall be required of them.

SEC. 2. In case personal sickness necessitates an absence of a week or more, a member shall have his whole board payment remitted for the time of sickness. If for any other reason than personal sickness a member be absent for over two weeks and less than four, fifty per cent (50%) of his board payment shall be remitted; if absent for over a month, seventy-five per cent (75%) shall be remitted.

Article 4.—Amendment.

These by-laws may be amended by a three-fourths vote of the Senior class.

The Benham Club has not yet attained to one-half the span of a human life and its founders still call themselves young men; but generation follows generation rapidly in the Seminary and other changes come so that already new members find themselves confronted with traditions, prejudices and customs of which they do not know the history and for which they demand an explanation, and older members revisiting the Club are surprised at many innovations and ask what has been retained and what lost of the customs that seemed to them the best. It is to link the past with the present, to introduce to each other the undergraduate and the alumnus that the following historical sketch is written.

The Benham Club dates from the fall of 1870. At that time Seminary students took their meals at the Refectory or in private boarding houses. Those that preferred the latter usually formed themselves into groups or clubs, each centering on one member who presided at the table, took over all business responsibilities and received therefor his board free of cost. At its inception the Benham Club differed in no wise from others nor were its founders conscious of inaugurating something new. The leader was George A. Marr and with him was closely associated W. I. Steans, the second chief. To Marr fell the task of securing a hostess and after a little searching he found Mrs. Benham. Steans' part was to get members but by mutual consent only congenial men were approached. At that time Mrs. Benham occupied the house on the northeast corner of Canal (Alexander) St. and an alley leading to the railway tracks and had room for twelve men, but so insistent were the founders upon congeniality as a condition of membership and so heartily did Mrs. Benham concur with their wishes, even foregoing her right to have the whole number, that it was not until late in the session of '79-'80 that the table was full. When it is added that Mrs. Benham provided meals far superior to those of the Refectory (it was called the Refactory as a rule) and better even than was either demanded or expected of her, the two fundamental characteristics of the Benham Club—good, wellprepared food and congenial, well-chosen companions—are seen to have been present from the beginning. The first group consisted of L. W. Beattie, Chas. Lee, H. A. Mac-Kubbin, Samuel A. Martin, G. A. Marr and W. I. Steans.

The Benham Club at once became so popular that many sought admission. In its second year it had nineteen members and Mrs. Benham secured a larger house immediately north of her own. The change was beneficial in every way and the new premises, enlarged by the addition of a bow window in the dining room in 1894, remained the home of the Club and of Mrs. Benham until her death in 1905. Indeed the Club remained in the old house during the session of '05-'06.

The death of Mrs. Benham although a severe blow to the Club did not endanger its continuity. By this time it had acquired sufficient individuality and vitality to be confident of its position. The event too had been foreseen by the Club which had taken steps toward another form of organization and by Mrs. Benham herself who in her will assumed its continuance. Moreover changes in the Seminary made discontinuance inadvisable. The Refectory had been closed for some years and the students were compelled to find board elsewhere. Several other clubs also had adopted the elective principle. It was decided therefore at a meeting of graduate and undergraduate members to have the Club incorporated, to buy a suitable home and so to perpetuate the old name and traditions. A house and lot were secured conveniently near the Seminary, 95 Mercer St., and bought by the trustees. A new office, that of steward to which were attached the duties of housekeeping, was created, and the Club entered upon the latest stage of its history.

When one inquires of the early days he becomes impressed by the prominent place unanimously given to Mrs. Benham. The Club today bears her name and respects her memory but the undergraduates do not and cannot have the same feeling toward her that their predecessors had. It is simple truth to say that all of them esteemed her highly and many really loved her. She was an excellent housekeeper and business woman, with unusual common sense and rarely devoted to her "boys" as she called them. She seldom saw them indeed, being occupied in the kitchen at meal times, but she knew them all, and followed their course both in the Seminary and later with a genuine sympathy and pride that was almost motherly. She regarded her duties very seriously and all who were in the Club during her life time remember not only the over-abundant supply of good things she provided three times each day, unfailingly year after year, and the unwearving patience that must have been sorely tried sometimes, but also numberless little additions that showed she was mindful of the weather, the class room, a holiday, a birthday, an examination or anything else that might affect the mood of the Club. It was her devotion that made the Benham Club possible and any other name for it would be a misnomer.

The Benham Club was at first and is still primarily an eating Club, and while, no doubt, some of its members have regarded it as little more than that, it has other characteristics which have both given it a permanent place in the affections of the great majority of its members and contributed to its usefulness, stability and continuity. At the centre of these was the insistence upon the congeniality of its members. In this sense the Club has always been elective and formal voting seems to have begun as soon as the number of members required this method of choice. The sense of fellowship thus secured has always been present although expressed in different ways. The earliest sign of it is probably the title "Chief" given to Marr in the first year of the Club's existence. It was given apparently in fun and accepted in the same spirit, and this together with the originality and quaintness of the title testify to the spirit of the founders. The title, of course, still remains nor has its mock seriousness entirely been lost.

An old custom that amused later generations was that of having one member read the morning papers and report their contents at the noon meal. In later times the members either read the papers for themselves or did not care to know their contents for this custom vanished early leaving no trace. Not so however with the "mace-bearer" whose duty it was to get the men out to breakfast. The Club has always wrestled with that problem and always failed to attain the ideal. When the mace failed, appeals were made to the men's finer feelings, to their sense of duty, to their conscience; a moral lock was attached to the door which was supposed to turn automatically at a definite time. Then a real iron lock was substituted to as little purpose. Mrs. Benham sympathized with the efforts at reform but her way of solving the problem was to serve two hot breakfasts, for the early and late respectively; and for those who dodged the mace, who had no finer feelings, no sense of duty, on whose seared consciences the moral lock did not work, who appeared at most outrageous hours, there was always an open door and hot eggs. The present writer, safe in the obscurity of anonymity, pauses in retrospect—

"And new laid eggs, which Baucis' busy care Turned by a gentle fire and roasted rare".

The reader and the mace-bearer passed away with other officials and customs that served their generation but the spirit of club unity that called them into being was gradually forming another office that was to be second only to that of Chief and become a permanent and essential part of the Club's inner life. This was the office of censor or, by its later name, Judge. The censor first appears in the year '80-'81 when his duties were to discover by fair means or foul and to report to the Club which of the members were engaged, the guilty ones being expected, at first individually then collectively, to "spread a feast" in the spring. In 1883 the office became permanent and its province enlarged. The censor was expected to correct real or imaginary errors of any sort, to settle disputes and in general to regulate the conduct of the Club at meals. Two years later his name was changed to that of Judge and the system of fining made its appearance, the fines to be imposed by the Judge and the amount so secured to be given to foreign missions. Recently they have gone to Benham men in the foreign field. The office of Assistant Judge was created about the same time and some years later Ezra, the scribe, came into existence to record and collect the fines. Until 1800, the Judge was a law unto himself but from that time until the present there is prepared annually by a special committee a series of enactments known as the Code which are to be obeyed by Club members and enforced by the Judge and his assistants.

This feature of the Club is sufficiently important to dwell on for it is connected radically with the Benham ideal. The Codes are all ridiculous and the method of administration scarcely less. To an outsider it must appear purely arbitrary and without real basis. As a matter of fact however it is an excellent method of securing the recreation which has always been one aim of the Club. Although in a theological seminary, Benham is not a theological club. Indeed one of its chief merits is that it has always frowned on anything that savored of the class room being introduced at meals, and there is always wide latitude given to the Judge in this matter by the perennial law that "heresy" is forbidden. This is a matter that should be clearly understood in view of the possible charge of levity. Benham has always stood for scholarship and piety but those who seek it must look at the records of the men she has turned out, the monthly Club prayer meeting and the weekly Club prayer meetings by classes in the dormitories-and not on Benham at dinner.

The evening meal has always been jovial. From the beginning any member that could amuse the Club was expected to do so then. In this respect the Club has never changed except that recently by common consent among the Clubs, Thursday is set apart as guests' night when perhaps a little more fun than usual may be expected. Attempts have been made from time to time to organize the "stunting" but never with much success. The year '86 saw the appointment of a musical director, and the office after falling into disuse has recently been revived in those of precentor and assistant precentor. Moreover the Chief nowadays is supposed to have control of the "stunting" but as a matter of fact it is still as unrestrained and informal as ever. It is a remarkable thing too that while there have been favorite songs that held their place for years, there is no one historic song or "stunt" that goes back to the beginning, nor has Benham ever felt the necessity of a Club song to encourage enthusiasm or kindle affection. A possible exception is the custom of singing "Shall We Gather at the River?" Mrs. Benham's favorite, as the last hymn on Sunday evening. One pretty custom however became impossible by the removal to Mercer St. In earlier days the members walked up the long hill to music-generally some slow melody that agreed with the climb, and this will always be remembered by the men of those days.

The present undergraduate Club has several features which older members may not recognize. The members of the senior class form an executive committee exercising a general control over the affairs of the Club. Among their duties is that of choosing the officers for the succeeding year. These are a Chief, a Judge, an Assistant Judge, an Ezra, a steward, an assistant steward, a precentor and an assistant precentor. The Chief retains the exalted position he has always had but his duties have become more onerous since Mrs. Benham's death. He represents the active Club on the board of Trustees, looks after the material comfort of the Club, having associated with him in this duty the steward and assistant steward, and is at the head of the "Judish" (Judiciary) in regulating its life and conduct. To the Judge falls the task of acting as secretary but his principal duty is to enforce the Code and the tone of the Club life depends largely upon his skill and judgment. Closely associated with him are the Assistant Judge and Ezra.

The number of active members is restricted to thirty and these are chosen as equally as possible from the three years. The growth of the graduate department in the Seminary has made it possible and advisable to have it represented too, and there is rarely a time when either old members returned for advanced study or new members chosen from among the p. g's. are absent. Moreover Benham has been fortunate in having missionaries in foreign fields who during furlough revisit Princeton and make the Club their home, and also in that for the last fifteen years some one of the Faculty, also a member of the Club, has shared its life. The "pigs' den" is still in evidence and is as a rule reserved for such superior beings. The other seats with exception of that of the Chief are chosen by lot.

In matter of customs there has been little essential change. Mrs. Benham's boys are not as tender hearted as she was and the member who appears after 8:15 A. M. (recitations now begin at 8:30) gets no breakfast. The wishbones are still saved, hung up to dry and worn in the old fashion when the annual photograph is taken. The device of the Club is a "B" within a wishbone.

As late as the early nineties the engaged men still shrank from publicity, and confessions, which at an earlier time had been obtained by guile, had to be forced from them by the Judge's challenge. But about '96 they became sufficiently numerous and enthusiastic to organize for offence and defence. There were six of them and they dubbed themselves the "Hexateuchs" and their enthusiastic cheer, given standing on chairs, was and is still known as the "Hexateuch" yell. The strength of this organization gradually discouraged maltreatment and for long the expression of mutual enmity has been confined to the "Hexateuch" yell on the one hand and the "Anti-shemit" cheer on the other. The private investigation of the censor and the direct challenge of the Judge have been superseded by a prophetic cake which appears at the Spring Dinner of each year, one half covered with brown and one half with white icing. Each member must cut a piece for himself and his choice of color reveals the state of his heart.

The feasts and spreads of earlier days have been consolidated in the Fall Dinner and the Spring Dinner. At the former the new members are tried out. Each is given a toast to which he must reply, and he is encouraged and discouraged as much as possible during his maiden effort. This is probably the liveliest night of the year. The other Junior test, namely the examination in Homiletics has latterly been held in one of the dormitories and become more pretentious. A committee of examiners is usually appointed who subject the Juniors to examination in the presence of the Club. Needless to say, there is little relation between the general subject and the questions, but the purpose is well subserved. The candidates have a chance to show what they can do at improvisation and absolutely ex tempore speaking. The prize is the same old notebook honored by all for its own intrinsic worth but now still more precious by reason of the succession of notable names-those of the successful contestants of the last twenty years. The Spring Dinner, in contrast to the Fall Dinner, is the farewell of the Senior class, each member of which has to speak. The poet who formerly voiced the serious thoughts on this occasion does not exist now, but each speaker is expected to lay aside levity in his remarks

The fact that quite a number of graduate members are within easy reach of Princeton has led to the institution of "Alumni nights". There are two of these each year, generally being before some athletic event in the University and notice is sent to the alumni in the neighborhood. The object of these is to enable old Benhamites to renew their youth and undergraduates to see of what sort their big brothers are. On the whole they have not been well attended and it may be that they will be soon discontinued. Not so, however, with the Alumni Dinner at Commencement time when the alumni and undergraduates meet to sing the old songs, hear the old "stunts", transact the business of the Club and report what is going on within the walls of the Seminary and in the big world outside. Those who have been to these dinners know the power of the Club life; those who have not, should come and renew their strength and loyalty.

There are many other matters that might be mentioned, but space forbids. As the songs and jokes about the table so the lesser customs change. Each generation lives partly to itself and does not seek to impose its follies and whims upon succeeding ones. Nor will this history record them. But the main current of the Club's life flows strongly and may be clearly traced from its source until the present day. To show this has been the purpose of this sketch and, when it is added that the water is still clear and sweet, our task is done.

THE CLUB HOUSE

THE CLUB HOUSE

During the year 1902-1903 it became apparent that Mrs. Benham would not be able to continue much longer her active management of the Club. At the annual dinner in the spring of 1903 this situation was discussed. The proposition to purchase a property met with favorable consideration. It was felt that the Club should have a permanent home where Mrs. Benham might spend her declining years and where the life of the Club might be continued for the benefit of future generations of students in the Seminary. A committee was appointed to make inquiries concerning available properties. This committee reported at the next annual meeting of the Club in May 1904 recommending the purchase of a property, whereupon the following action was then taken:

"Resolved, that a finance committee, consisting of seven members, of which the Chief shall be ex officio member, be appointed by the Chief as trustees of the Club to incorporate the Club, if necessary; to secure option and purchase the property of W. B. Harris, on the corner of Mercer and Edgehill streets; to raise, receive and administer the funds of the Club until the next annual meeting on the following conditions: that no objection from the proper Seminary authorities be raised, and that an amount of money be raised sufficient to justify, in the judgment of the committee, the purchase of the said property."

The committee, consisting of A. T. Ormond (Chairman), Maitland Alexander, M. V. Bartlett, W. P. Armstrong, C. R. Erdman, Henry E. Cobb, and R. K. Hickok, having ascertained from the President of the Seminary that not only would no objection be raised to the plan, but that it had his cordial approval, and having received the necessary subscriptions, purchased on May 11th, 1904, from W. B. Harris the property at 95 Mercer St., for $7,000.00, paying $1,000.00 in cash and giving a first mortgage for $3,500.00 with interest at 5 per cent (Bk 142 Mortgages 351) and a second mortgage for $2,500.00 with interest at 6 per cent (Bk 142 Mortgages 354). t did not seem feasible	to have the Club incor

It did not seem feasible to have the Club incorporated at that time and it was agreed by the committee that the title to the property should be vested temporarily in three of their number,—Alexander T. Ormond, Maitland V. Bartlett and William P. Armstrong. The House was repaired and rented from September 1904 to July 1906. In the summer of 1906, alterations were made to fit it for the use of the Club; tables and chairs were purchased; the silver was presented by the Class of 1900 and the china by the Class of 1906. The Club entered its new home at the opening of the Seminary year in September.

On May 8th 1905, the Club was incorporated. As it did not seem wise to change the form of the mortgages at that time, the title to the property remained in the names of A. T. Ormond et al, until January 29th, 1908, when upon legal advice a deed was given to the Trustees of the Club reciting the mortgages as the consideration (Bk 305 Deeds 364).

On July 10th, 1907, the second mortgage was reduced from $2,500.00 to $1,500.00 and the two were assigned to the Rector, Wardens and Vestrymen of St. Mary's Church, Burlington, N. J., with interest at 5 per cent. On August 8th, 1911, the second mortgage was again reduced from $1,500.00 to $1,000.00 and the two were assigned to the Princeton Bank with interest at 5 per cent and the privilege of reduction in small amounts.

In order to meet the interest on the mortgages, the taxes, and insurance on the property, the Trustees have received from the undergraduate Club the sum of $300.00 yearly, a sum slightly more than the average rental received by it from the bed-rooms on the second floor. The subscriptions from the alumni and part of the surplus from the undergraduate Club have been applied to the maintenance of the property and the reduction of the second mortgage.

The Club House has now been in the possession of the Club for seven years. During this time $1,000.00 has been paid on the purchase price and the mortgage indebtedness reduced from $6,000.00 to $4,500.00. Subscriptions have been received from about 93 alumni. Some of the original subscribers have paid their subscriptions in full and have not felt able to continue them beyond the first five-year Others have renewed their subscriptions for the period. second five-year period. Some have made contributions from time to time, and others have been removed by death. But all have shown an interest and constancy in supporting the Club in its financial obligations which give ground for confidence with respect to the future. Those who have had the courage to begin and the faithfulness to sustain this work will surely find successors in every new generation of Benham men; and in this assurance the Trustees look forward to the time when the property, unencumbered by mortgage indebtedness, may be placed at the disposal of the undergraduate Club free from rental charges.
